Long-Term Care in an Aging Society: Theory and Practice Graham D. Rowles, Pamela B. Teaster

This comprehensive graduate textbook focuses on the full spectrum of long-term care settings ranging from family and community based care through supportive housing options to a variety of institutional long-term care alternatives. Integrating theory and practice, the book features the perspectives of diverse fields regarding current long-term care options and new directions for the future. Prominent scholars from history, environmental design, family caregiving, gerontology, social service delivery, clinical care, health service delivery, public policy, finance, law, and ethics explore such themes as:

- Relationships among independence, dependence, and interdependence
- Ethical considerations in the provision of long-term care
- Decision-making in long-term care
- Fluidity and transitions in long-term care
- The lived experience of long-term care
- A micro-macro perspective ranging from the individual to societal institutions

The book examines future directions for long-term care, considering such factors as the interface of technology and long-term care, cultural diversity, and relationships between voluntary and paid services. Each chapter includes case examples, study questions, and exercises, additional resources, and website links. The appendices provide a glossary and a list of acronyms. Instructor's resources are also available.
